

Building Capacity for State, Local, and Territorial Governments to Use Administrative Data for Evidence-Building (ADEB-24) FAQ

As of June 3, 2024

	Question	Answer
1	Are you looking for completely new programs to test? Or are welcoming currently operating programs that can illustrate the stated deliverables with longitudinal data from multiple government sources?	We are looking for offerors to suggest how to best achieve the goals of the project initially with one state, and then the process replicated in another state.
2	Is ADC looking for a total of two (2) teaming partners in addition to the lead offeror? Or, is there other guidance on number of teaming partners to advise the project?	We are looking for 2 different entities in 2 different government organizations, state government organizations. So it is not just partnering with State A, and then say, city A and city B. We are looking for 2 different States, although it does not necessarily have to be a state government. They do need access to the wage records.
3	What is the anticipated role of any non-governmental organizations participating on the project team?	They're the ones developing of the tool, the guidance, everything that is stated in the project plan. It's also up to the offeror to suggest why they would want a non-government partner as well.
4	Will this project be funded?	Yes, please reference section 2.3 in the RFS.
5	Given the complex and varied policy environment that exists within each state/local/regional government how does this RFS intend to make the solution extensible to other use cases?	The proposed solution should be designed to support state/territories/local governments regardless of how that individual government defines inequality in their own political environment.
